2.1 Sport Organisation
Catholic Education – Diocese of Lismore

The Diocese of Lismore operates with the direction of the Catholic Schools Sports Service (CSSS) – which is to commence in March 2012 - under the control of the NSW All Schools Coordinating Committee which reports directly to the Federal Minister for Sport.

The Diocese of Lismore is comprised of twelve systemic secondary colleges and one non-systemic college and 33 primary schools.

Diocesan Sport has two coordinating bodies:

Lismore Diocesan Secondary Sports Association
and Lismore Diocesan Primary Sports Council.

These bodies are organised in the following way.

Lismore Diocesan Secondary Sports Association

Each of the twelve diocesan secondary schools has a representative on this Association which meets at least twice each year with the Diocesan Sport and Health Coordinator.

A chairperson and secretary are elected each year from the representing sport coordinators.

Lismore Diocesan Primary Sports Council

The Diocese is divided into four zones for the purpose of organising Lismore Diocesan Primary sport. These zones are:

- Tweed
- Richmond
- Clarence
- Hastings.

Each zone has a committee with chairperson, treasurer/secretary and a representative from each school who meet each term to coordinate sport within their zone.

In turn, each zone elects two representatives to meet as the Lismore Diocese Primary Sports Council four times each year. This body has a chairperson and secretary among the eight representatives from the zones, as well as a representative from the Principals’ Association and the Diocesan Sport and Health Coordinator. This group meets each term.
